

comments related view images (0)

Happy hunting!

Want to join? Log in or sign up in seconds.

search

This is an archived post. You won't be able to vote or comment.

This Post Was Submitted On 19 May 2015

4 points (64% upvoted)

https://redd.it/36g834

username password remember me reset password Login

Write Note

Use subreddit style subscribe +shortcut +dashboard

54,765 hunters (231 hunting)

Guidelines

- Be respectful, adhere to Reddiquette. Refrain from submitting private info. Content must pertain to Bloodborne. Seek co-op help at /r/huntersbell. Please, no 'port begging'. Please add flair to your submissions. Use spoiler tags appropriately. Posting NSFW content is not allowed.

[+] Expanded guidelines.

Please check the F.A.Q. before posting.

Community

- Resources / Tools Chalice Dungeon Glyphs Reddit PVP Chalice Dungeon Hunter's Bell Blood Bell Contributions IRC Chat (irc.snoonet.org:6667 #Bloodborne) Unofficial Mumble (85.236.100.137:2987) Cheat Sheet by SlothsLoveDoom Fight Club hosted by rocksolid9238

Watchword: Panacea

Filters

- Discussion Lore Community Media Hide Spoilers

What are filters?

Sharing

- Submit PSN ID View PSN List View Chalice Dungeons Submit Chalice Dungeons

Trophy Flair

Request Bloodborne Trophy Flair

Using Spoilers

This is a spoiler

Spoiler

To hide or view spoiler text and posts marked as

Is Hidetaka Miyazaki really anti-religious? Probably not submitted 7 months ago by Gaidnawarrior

I see a few atheists trying to project their real life anti-religious views into the Souls series and Bloodborne noting that there's a few bad religious characters who are shown as manipulators. The Old One "god" in Demon's Souls is shown as being a demon that devours souls and apparently according to one poster here from a month ago, the gods in Dark Souls don't care about people so that game is anti-religious too.

These are simply the views of most people who skipped dialogue through these games and rushed through them, then filled in the gaps with their own beliefs it seems. In Demon's Souls, it's actually revealed the Old One was simply a created being by god as the source for magic and miracles that humanity corrupted in their lust for more power.

In Dark Souls, humanity evolved from mindless darkness but were made into forms of flesh by the gods. Kaathe offers the player the chance to return the world to dark (aka "the age of man" as a world devoid of gods where fire no longer exists and everything reverts to a primitive form) whilst Frampt asks the player to continue the fire to sustain life, meanwhile the gods answer prayers and provide miracles whilst Kaathe's minions wish to destroy the souls of every living thing. Kaathe's age of man is shown as being harmful to every living thing whilst the age of gods/fire is shown as being beneficial.

So the real themes I'm seeing here with these games is that humanity without any guidance is innerly evil, perhaps with the potential to become bigger demons than those the player fights in the game (in fact several bosses throughout the Souls series - i.e four kings - were formally humans that were corrupted).

Whilst there are con-artist religious people in the games such as Licia, Patches, the only atheist in the series who denies prayers and the existence of gods, is shown as a liar, fraud, hypocrite, cheat, thief and murderer. In contrast, Rhea and Solaire (who are both religious) are shown as people who are pure of heart and loyal. As a result, I don't think you can look at the characters in the Souls series as being representative of the series views on religion since characters from religion or lack-thereof in the games are all shown on different moral spectrums.

Bloodborne once again offers the same themes with the Vilebloods (the opponents of the Church) being shown as murderers of Hunters who relish in the blood of beasts and man alike. The Church is little different in their evil but doesn't mindlessly kill humans or Hunters (with several Church Hunters actually fighting against beasts and trying to aid other Hunters, whilst the Vilebloods hunts all). Humanity here is once again shown as being innerly evil (just as with Dark Souls with humanity containing dark inside themselves) with a beastly nature.

So far from From Software games being anti-religious, I simply think they're really "anti-humanity" with the idea that humans are evil. Bloodborne shows the Church as being corrupt but it wasn't always so (as the game hints with one of the chalices that the Church may have tried to heal the plague, they did, after-all, ally with the Hunters once to fight the beats but eventually they became corrupt along with everything else in the world). Bloodborne shows everything in the world as now being corrupt (although even so, The Church remains the only safe place in the game with its priest helping survivors just as the religious covenants in the Souls series helped undead get through the land).

So yeah I think people need to stop reading into the idea that these games are anti-religious since an opposing case can be made that they're not.

17 comments source share hide all child comments

all 17 comments subscribe Load all comments sorted by: best navigate by: submitter | moderator | friend | me | admin | highlighted | gilded | IAMA | images | videos | popular | new

[-] SeanPWallace 6 points 7 months ago

Are you... a Cleric?

permalink source save-RES

[-] ImaginaryStar 6 points 7 months ago* (last edited 7 months ago)

I agree with you only half way, for it seems that you go on projecting the exact opposite views on lore that is deeply ambiguous, essentially committing the same sin you accuse others of.

permalink source save-RES

[-] wickedblight 9 points 7 months ago

I think Miyazaki just likes ambiguity, twists, and the idea that the road to hell is paved with good intentions. The church is always a force with good intent but xx happens and they fuck everything up.

permalink source save-RES

[-] rqon 3 points 7 months ago

Just because he enjoys using certain themes, concepts, etc. doesn't mean he's trying to push an agenda.

permalink source save-RES

[-] Akuze25 4 points 7 months ago

I think the idea is that fanaticism or zealotry is dangerous, not religion. Religion gives people something to believe in or hope for, but doing so blindly is perilous.

permalink source save-RES

[-] Scrubstadt 7 points 7 months ago

These seem like cherrypicked examples in a series full of examples to the contrary. Your strongest argument is with Demon's Souls, where God is truly most like the Christian god(and by far the least fleshed out). And so "was merciful, and created the Old One".

In Dark Souls, the "gods" are pretty much just humans who were lucky enough to be first in line to the soul party so they got the biggest ones. They're repeatedly shown to be fallible and even erroneous in their approach to life(witch of izalith, four kings, Seath) and are only really gods in name. They're pretty much false idols in a godless world, that's the whole point of Kaathe's spiel. DS2 is the same deal.

As far as Bloodborne goes, cosmic horror in general is kind of an antithesis to most creation stories, especially the christian one. BB, as everyone knows by now is HEAVILY influenced by Lovecraft and his themes. Lovecraft was a vehement atheist during a time when atheists weren't all too popular, so his views really bleed through his writing. This is evident when you look at the central deity of his mythos, Azathoth. Who, completely unlike the christian god, basically farted out the universe completely on accident, and is so cosmically beyond human comprehension and beyond that which makes up our universe, that he doesn't even know the universe or its inhabitants even exist. It's for this reason that he's sometimes referred to as the blind idiot god.

Of course, this is BB's universe and not Lovecraft's, but I mention all of this to try and illustrate just how fundamentally opposed cosmic horror is to the concept of religion. BB's deities are no different. Most of the game is spent trying to tell us that the healing church had the wrong idea and got in over their heads, worshipping these beings. Seems Willem had this realization before he died, if these notes and their correlation are anything to go by: "Master willem was right. evolution without courage will be the ruin of our race" and "hunt the Great ones. Hunt the great ones"

The Mensis ritual beckons the Moon, a Great One, which further fucks over Yharnam with the Scourge and literally devolves humanity. So overall, faith in Bloodborne doesn't seem like something that's rewarded very consistently. Patches seems to be the sole example of faith ending.. Not horribly for someone in this game.

permalink source save-RES

[-] The_Magic_Pickle 3 points 7 months ago

1.Petrus of Thurlund- religious, murderer 2.Gwyn, Lord of Sunlight had a prison for hollows 3.Humanity a.k.a.the dark souls gives hollows flesh/human form not the gods. 4.Anor Londo is a huge lie created by a god to deceive you.

There are probably more I'm just not remembering.

Not saying the game is anti-religious. Not that I particularly care if it is, but don't leave out plausible information to make your argument look better. These games are meant to be ambiguous and interpreted differently.

TL;DR: It's a game play it and have fun.

permalink source save-RES

[-] SunBorne187 PS4 Already dead 3 points 7 months ago

spoilers ('lock' thumbnail), be sure to click the "Hide / Show Spoilers" link in the Filters section below.

Bookmark "ns.reddit.com/r/bloodborne" to avoid spoilers by default.

Posts marked as spoilers use the NSFW feature. If you feel you are not seeing certain posts, you may need to enable viewing of NSFW content in your Reddit preferences.

Related Subreddits

Thank you, sohlol, for allowing us to display your artwork on our subreddit!

Header art created by alcd.

r/Movie_Club

Watch A Different Movie Every Week!
Community Choice

discuss this ad on reddit

友 Message The Moderators

- MODERATORS
- street_ronin
 - crazeeyak
 - PrairieWulf
 - jwilliams108
 - e_0
 - AutoModerator
 - toiletbowltrauma
- about moderation team »

< > discussions in /r/bloodborne x

29 points · 16 comments
Valtr Animated Comic \(Lordran and Beyond\)

▼ Ah but can that idea of "anti-humanity" not be expanded to include the fact that religion/covenants/factions are a construct of humanity and a cause of division and strife?
 permalink source save-RES

▲ [-] LiveLongDieHappy 1 point 7 months ago
 ▼ "Acts of goodness are not always wise, and acts of evil are not always foolish. but regardless. we shall always strive to be good."
 permalink source save-RES

▲ [-] SneerValiant 1 point 7 months ago
 ▼ There are a ton of things in all the games that are reminiscent of Buddhism. Not saying it has a message, but the themes might have Buddhist influences simply by way of Japanese culture.
 permalink source save-RES

▲ [-] PigKnight 1 point 7 months ago
 ▼ I mean sure Alfred is a nutter, but he's super friendly and never threatens you even when you bat for the other team. Sure he brutalizes someone, but that was the only way he can make sure she's "dead."
 permalink source save-RES

▲ [-] Underwhere_Overthere -2 points 7 months ago
 ▼ By "a few atheists," you mean me, right? Are you going to have your other two alt accounts that you created today come in to agree with yourself?
 You must know me. I'm not sure what you're really trying to do, but you certainly have my interest.
 permalink source save-RES hide child comments

▲ [-] The_Magic_Pickle 2 points 7 months ago
 ▼ Filthy Atheist!
 How could you not believe in our lord and savior Amygdala?!
 permalink source save-RES parent

▲ [-] krumhur 4 points 7 months ago
 ▼ Oh Amygdala, have mercy on the poor bastard!
 permalink source save-RES parent

▲ [-] SunBorne187 PS4 Already dead 3 points 7 months ago
 ▼ Heathen!
 Everyone knows that you curs added bones to our great lord Flying Spaghetti Monster in order to create your false one Amygdala.
 permalink source save-RES parent

▲ [-] Fut-Boy Fut-Boy (psn ID) 1 point 7 months ago
 ▼ How about Kos...or some say Kosm
 Does he hear our prayers?
 permalink source save-RES parent

▲ [-] The_Magic_Pickle 2 points 7 months ago
 ▼ Grant us eyes!
 permalink source save-RES parent

ABOUT

- blog
- about
- values
- team
- source code
- advertise
- jobs

HELP

- site rules
- FAQ
- wiki
- reddiquette
- transparency
- contact us

APPS & TOOLS

- Alien Blue iOS app
- mobile beta
- buttons

<3

- reddit gold
- reddit store
- redditgifts

